Letter from the Co-Presidents

Dear Gala Delegates, Sponsors, Honorees, Champions, and Members,

We are honored to write to you on behalf of InterPride, as the Co-presidents of our esteemed organization. It is with great pleasure that we host this 1st Global Gala to celebrate 40 years of advancing the global Pride movement.

Our organization has expanded to become one of the premier worldwide coalitions of Pride organizers. One of our most prominent brands, WorldPride, brings millions of people worldwide every two years to celebrate, be politically active, and make a statement about the power of our expanding movement.

Our non-profit organization has been serving the global LGBTQIA+ community for many years, intending to make a positive impact, focusing on the global South and East, where being queer can be punishable by and up to death.

Scholarships, honorariums, education, and programming offered throughout the year are all part of our effort to help marginalized individuals have a stronger voice and contribute to the worldwide Pride movement. Every day, people worldwide celebrate Pride, and we stand at the center of the most promising opportunities for uplifting this movement.

InterPride's 1st ever Global Gala is one of our most important fundraising events ever created, and we rely on the generosity of our donors and supporters to help us continue our vital work. We have lined up talented performers and speakers for the event who will share their stories and experiences to inspire and motivate us all.

Your support is greatly appreciated, and we look forward to sharing this special evening with you.

We hope you enjoy an evening of solidarity with InterPride!

Message From InterPride's Founder, Marsha H. Levine

Forty years ago, I had a nugget of an idea that I never knew would grow. The plan was simple ... invite about 50 LGBTQI+ Pride or Pride-related organizations to join me (Boston Pride) in a historic Beacon Hill home converted to a community center to discuss commonalities. Of those who replied were six cities: Boston, New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Diego, and San Francisco, represented by 16 people. Twelve of them slept pajama-party style on the floor of my brownstone studio in Boston's South End. I prepared and provided all the breakfasts and lunches... some of us dined out together for dinner. I recall the weather was, disappointingly, typically autumn-ish gray and rainy instead of beautifully New England Indian summerly.

We met for three days and agreed as we wrapped things up that the conversation was healthy and inspiring, determining to meet the next year in San Diego. I never imagined it continuing until this day — or that it would be so inclusive, connecting the whole world — my ideas had been just simple and immediate: share the information, mentor as we go.

It is still a little surreal to take in, and makes me immensely proud to call many who attend InterPride, my friends.

InterPride

InterPride's History

In October of 1982, 15 representatives from six United States Pride organizations answered a “call to unite” sent out by Marsha H. Levine. They gathered to network in Boston at the first meeting of what Levine had called the National Association of Lesbian and Gay Pride Coordinators. Among those present were Levine representing Boston Lesbian/ Gay Pride Committee; Rich Pfeiffer* of Pride Chicago; David Colle*, Tony Gambino*, Fred Goldfaber*, Janet Love, R. Paul Martin, and Brian O'Dell of Christopher Street Liberation Day Committee/ NYC; Sean Johnson*, George Piazzzi, Cheryl Ruddy*, and Sharon Tobin from Christopher Street West/LA; Doug Moore of San Diego Lambda Pride; and Konstantin Berlandt* and Glenne McElhinney from the San Francisco Freedom Day Committee. At the end of the weekend, all agreed to continue to meet every year, and since then, the number of Pride organizations had steadily grown.

(*=deceased)

As the movement built for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, and intersex (LGBTQI+) equal rights grew, Pride events became more prominent. The need for a more global organization was getting stronger. Pride took place in many continents, so the organization was renamed the International Association of Lesbian and Gay Pride Coordinators.

With the participation of more delegates came greater diversity. At the 1998 West Hollywood, California Conference, they voted to add bisexual and transgender to the association's name, International Association of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Pride Coordinators.

At the 1984 Conference, delegates started the ongoing tradition of selecting an annual theme. Members voted for a theme and were then encouraged to include it within their Pride organizations.

By the late 1980s, delegates from Canada, Mexico, and the United Kingdom were participating. Continued

InterPride

The 1999 Glasgow Conference in Scotland was a true milestone. It was the first conference held outside the North American continent. The organization revisited its name and shortened it to InterPride, therefore consolidating its global impact.
